What is Prevent?

- Prevent is one strand of the UK's wider counter-terrorism strategy known as CONTEST.
- The strands of the strategy are:
 - Prevent – aims to stop people becoming terrorists or supporting terrorism by safeguarding people and communities
 - Pursue – is concerned with the apprehension and arrest of people suspected of being engaged in the planning, preparation or commissioning of terrorism
 - Protect – seeks to strengthen our protection against a terrorist attack and reduce our vulnerability to an attack
 - Prepare – mitigates the impact of a terrorist attack where an attack cannot be stopped
- The purpose of Prevent is to safeguard and support people to stop them from becoming terrorists or supporting terrorism of any form. It aims to:
 - tackle the causes of radicalisation and respond to the ideological challenge of terrorism
 - safeguard and support those most at risk of radicalisation through early intervention, identifying them and offering support
 - enable those who have already engaged in terrorism to disengage and rehabilitate

What is Extremism?

This definition was updated in March 2024 - New definition of extremism \(2024\) - GOV.UK \(www.gov.uk\)

Extremism is the promotion or advancement of an ideology based on violence, hatred or intolerance, that aims to:

1. negate or destroy the fundamental rights and freedoms of others; or
 2. undermine, overturn or replace the UK's system of liberal parliamentary democracy and democratic rights; or
 3. intentionally create a permissive environment for others to achieve the results in (1) or (2).
- Types of behaviour on the next slides are indicative of the kind of promotion or advancement which may be relevant to the definition, and are an important guide to its application.

Further information and context to the definition and behaviour can be found on this webpage New definition of extremism \(2024\) - GOV.UK \(www.gov.uk\)

Aim 1 (negate or destroy fundamental rights and freedoms)

- Behaviour against a group, or members of it, that seeks to negate or destroy their rights to live equally under the law and free of fear, threat, violence, and discrimination. Including:
- Using, threatening, inciting, justifying, glorifying or excusing violence towards a group in order to dissuade them from using their legally defined rights and freedoms.

Aim 2 (undermine, overturn or replace liberal democracy)

- Attempts to undermine, overturn, or replace the UK's system of liberal parliamentary democracy and democratic rights. Including:
- Advocating that the UK's parliamentary democracy and democratic values and rights are not compatible with their ideology, and seeking to challenge, overthrow, or change our political system outside of lawful means.
- Using, threatening, inciting, justifying, glorifying or excusing violence towards citizens, in order to dissuade them from participating freely in the democratic process.
- Subverting the way public or state institutions exercise their powers, in order to further ideological goals, for example through entryism, or by misusing powers or encouraging others to do so.
- Using, threatening, inciting, justifying, glorifying or excusing violence towards public officials including our armed forces, police forces and members of local, devolved or national legislatures, in order to dissuade them from conducting their obligations freely and fearlessly, without external interference.
- Establishing parallel governance structures which, whether or not they have formal legal underpinning, seek to supersede the lawful powers of existing institutions of state.

Aim 3 (enabling the spread of extremism)

- Intentionally creating a permissive environment for behaviour in aim 1 or aim 2. Including:
- Providing an uncritical platform for individuals or representatives of groups or organisations that have demonstrated behaviour in either aim 1 or aim 2.
- Facilitating activity of individuals or representatives of groups or organisations that have demonstrated behaviour in either aim 1 or aim 2, including through provision of endorsement, funding, or other forms of support.
- The dissemination of extremist propaganda and narratives that call for behaviour in either aim 1 or aim 2.
- Attempts to radicalise, indoctrinate and recruit others to an ideology based on violence, hatred or intolerance, including young people.
- Consistent association with individuals or representatives of groups or organisations that have demonstrated behaviour in either aim 1 or aim 2 without providing critical challenge to their ideology or behaviour.
- If any behaviour listed in aim 1 or aim 2 has occurred previously, a refusal by the individual, group or organisation that conducted the behaviour to rescind, repudiate or distance themselves from the behaviour.

What is Radicalisation?

- Radicalisation is the word commonly used to describe the mental process the person is going through as they get drawn down a dangerous path.
- If someone is becoming radicalised it means they are displaying extreme views in support of extreme ideologies or beliefs, terrorist groups and activities.
- It can be hard to spot if someone is becoming radicalised, as some of the signs are indicators of other underlying issues, or challenges that are not connected to radicalisation.
- But we know friends and family are best placed to spot any changes in behaviour. If you're worried they are vulnerable then reach out and speak to someone. If you'd rather not talk directly to us, there are other people who can listen and who can help. This could be your GP, a faith or community leader, your local authority or a teacher.

Radicalisation as a four stage process

Radicalisation has been described as a four stage process:-

1

Pre-radical

The person joins or identifies with a group or organisation

2

Self-identify

The person believes and accepts the beliefs and views held by the group or organisation

3

Indoctrination

The person is groomed by the group or organisation pulling them further down the pathway

4

Terrorism

The person becomes involved in committing terrorist acts

Spot the Signs of Radicalisation

- Radicalisation can happen both in person or online.
- Everyone is different, and there is no checklist that can tell us if someone is being radicalised or becoming involved in terrorism. But these signs may mean someone is being radicalised:
 - accessing extremist content online or downloading propaganda material
 - justifying the use of violence to solve societal issues
 - altering their style of dress or appearance to accord with an extremist group
 - being unwilling to engage with people who they see as different
 - using certain symbols associated with terrorist organisations
- Find out more: Get help for radicalisation concerns - GOV.UK \(www.gov.uk\)

Spotting the Signs

There are many factors that could make someone susceptible to radicalisation including:

- Feelings of grievance and injustice
- Being at a transitional time of life
- Experiencing a traumatic event
- A desire for political or moral change
- Struggling with a sense of identity, meaning and belonging or questioning their place in society
- A desire for status
- Being influenced or controlled by a group
- Experiencing racism or discrimination

Signs that can show a person may be a victim of online radicalisation

More important than any one sign is the feeling that something is not quite right. Parents and friends are best placed to spot any changes in behaviour. If you are worried then trust your instincts and reach out for help and advice. If you act early the person can receive support and choose a different pathway before it is too late.

Here are some signs to watch out for in the person you are worried about. You can find out more in our section on what to look out for, which explains how to spot the signs in more detail.

They are becoming increasingly intolerant of other people's views

They are being secretive of who they are talking to online

They are sharing or liking extremist posts on social media

They are reading, posting, watching or sharing hateful or extreme content and links

They appear to be expressing someone else's views

Prevent Radicalisation and Extremism by Acting Early

It can be hard to know what to do if you're worried someone close is expressing extreme views or hatred, which could lead to them harming themselves or others. Working with other organisations, the police protect vulnerable people from being exploited by extremists through a Home Office programme called Prevent.

Act early and tell us your concerns in confidence. You won't be wasting our time and you won't ruin lives, but you might save them.

What to do if you're worried about someone

Try to speak with them: If it's somebody that you know well, try talking to them about what you've noticed if you feel comfortable doing so.

- Find advice on how to do this:
 - talking to friends and family on the ACT Early website
 - those working in schools on the Educate Against Hate website
- Be aware that your concern might not be welcome at first, and the person may get angry or defensive. You could try talking to other family and friends to see if they have noticed anything similar before getting expert advice.

Ask for advice: If you are worried that someone you know is being radicalised, ask for advice as soon as possible.

- visit the ACT Early website

The earlier you ask for advice, the sooner you can help to stop that person becoming a danger to them self or others. Anything you share will always be in confidence.

After talking to someone about your worries, you may be asked to help create a referral to the Prevent programme

If there is immediate danger, call 999.

Notice, Check, Share

Notice

- Those who work in frontline support roles will often be the first to notice if someone displays concerning behaviour, like the signs of radicalisation outlined in this guide. If you notice behaviours that cause you concern, then you may want to consider whether the person is susceptible to radicalisation.
- There could be many different reasons for these behaviours, not just radicalisation. It's important to understand the context, and why these changes are happening, before jumping to any conclusions.

Check

- You may wish to discuss your concern organisationally, with the person responsible for safeguarding, such as the designated safeguarding lead. Checking before sharing a concern is a way of making sure you have gathered as much relevant information as possible before making your referral.

Share

- Once you have gathered the relevant information, it is essential to share a concern and make a referral to the police using the Prevent national referral form. In some cases, you may do this directly. Sometimes, where appropriate, the organisational safeguarding lead or equivalent, or the local authority may do this on your behalf.
- Professionals can complete the Prevent duty training to find out more.

Working Together under the Prevent Duty

This short animation (2 minutes duration) illustrates how public sectors under the Prevent duty work together to stop radicalisation.

Click on this link to view: Prevent duty animation - public sector staff working together to stop radicalisation - YouTube

Making a Prevent Referral

- Anyone can make a Prevent Referral if they have concerns that someone is at risk of radicalisation.
- An electronic form is available to complete on the Wiltshire Police Prevent | Wiltshire Police
- A referral is made to the local Counter Terrorism Police who will gather information to look at the context surrounding concerning behaviour changes and decide on the most appropriate course of action.
- In most cases, referrals are signposted to other services, but if it is recognised that there is an ideology present, capability or intent to act then they may be put forward for support from Channel.
- If there are safeguarding concerns relating to a child or adult consideration should also be given to making a safeguarding referral. Further guidance can be found:

What is Channel and How Does it Support Prevent?

- Channel is the safeguarding panel which supports Prevent. It is led by the local authority and is a programme which focuses on supporting people at an early stage who are identified as susceptible to being drawn into terrorism.
- Channel ensures people are able to receive support before they are exploited by those wanting them to embrace terrorist related activity.
- Channel is a confidential and voluntary process where multi-agency safeguarding professionals meet to discuss support options. These support options encompass an array of different interventions, addressing educational, vocational, mental health, and other vulnerabilities.
- Ideological support is also common, which may include discussion with credible ideological experts and faith leaders.
